FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Accomplished Fundraiser to Lead Macaulay Honors College Advancement Efforts

Sean P. Moriarty Named Vice President of Institutional Advancement

New York, NY - (June 25, 2014). Sean P. Moriarty, a successful fundraiser for higher education institutions, including the London School of Economics and The New School, will join Macaulay Honors College of the City University of New York on July 14, 2014 as Vice President of Institutional Advancement.

“We are thrilled that Macaulay’s fundraising efforts will be spearheaded by a talented leader with an impressive track record,” said Ann Kirschner, Dean of Macaulay Honors College. “Sean joins the College at a pivotal time, as we continue rapidly on a path to strategic growth and impact,” she added.

As Vice President of Institutional Advancement, Moriarty will lead the College’s efforts to expand its comprehensive portfolio of corporate and foundation relations, individual donors, volunteer engagement, and alumni relations. Moriarty will be responsible for developing private funding sources and increasing the breadth and depth of Macaulay’s donor pool. He will lead the planning of Macaulay’s 15th anniversary celebration and the accompanying capital campaign that will generate support for special programs to enhance the reputation of the College and the achievement of its students. “I am greatly honored to take on this position at Macaulay Honors College,” said Moriarty. “Macaulay is an important institution in our city. And I look forward to collaborating with academic leaders and donors to increase philanthropic support in order to bolster the academic experiences of all Macaulay students.”

Prior to joining Macaulay, Moriarty was Assistant Vice President for Development and Alumni Relations at The New School, where he secured unprecedented philanthropic support and led a team of advancement professionals. Before The New School, he played a leadership role in the London School of Economics' first-ever $200 million campaign and worked with donors worldwide. One of Moriarty's earliest achievements was leading a $25 million capital campaign for St. Francis College in Brooklyn.
